COMPLETE STUDY GUIDE

SnapShot + Grammar Compilation

English Core - Class 11

CLASS 11th

Complete Chapter-wise Guide for Examination Preparation

Important Questions with Answers | Grammar & Literature

Written, Compiled & Created by

MOHAMMAD FAIZ

First Edition: 2026

Copyright & Author Information

SnapShot + Grammar Compilation

Class 11 English Core

Complete Study Guide

Written, Compiled & Created by:

MOHAMMAD FAIZ

Content Includes:

- Complete Chapter Summaries
- Themes & Character Analysis
- Important Questions with Answers
- Extract-Based Questions (MCQs)
- Short & Long Answer Questions
- Complete Grammar Section
- Word Meanings & Literary Devices

© 2026 Mohammad Faiz
All Rights Reserved.

No part of this publication may be reproduced,
distributed, or transmitted in any form or by any means,
without the prior written permission of the author.

Created for Educational Purposes

Table of Contents

SECTION A: SNAPSHOT - PROSE

1. The Summer of the Beautiful White Horse
2. The Address
3. Ranga's Marriage
4. Albert Einstein at School
5. Mother's Day
6. The Ghat of the Only World
7. Birth
8. The Tale of Melon City

SECTION B: GRAMMAR

1. Gap Filling (Tenses & Clauses)
2. Sentence Re-ordering
3. Sentence Transformation
4. Integrated Grammar Practice
5. Important Grammar Rules

SECTION C: QUICK REFERENCE

Literary Devices
Authors and Their Works

Exam Preparation Tips

01

SNAPSHOT

Complete Chapter Summaries, Themes, Character Analysis & Important Questions

CHAPTER 1

The Summer of the Beautiful White Horse

By William Saroyan

Summary

Chapter Overview

This story revolves around two Armenian boys - Aram and Mourad, who belong to the Garoghlanian family, known for their honesty despite their poverty. The story takes a turn when Mourad brings a beautiful white horse one morning, which he has stolen from their neighbor John Byro.

The narrator, Aram, is astonished to see his cousin Mourad sitting on a magnificent white horse at his window one summer morning. The Garoghlanian family was extremely poor but famous for their honesty. No member of their family could ever think of stealing.

Mourad had a way with animals - horses, dogs, and even birds. He had stolen the horse from John Byro's vineyard but justified it by saying they were only borrowing it for some time. The boys kept the horse in a deserted barn and rode it every morning.

One morning, they met John Byro on their way back. He examined the horse carefully and remarked that it looked exactly like his stolen horse - same teeth, same features. However, because of the boys' family's reputation for honesty, he didn't suspect them.

This encounter made the boys feel guilty. The next morning, they took the horse back to John Byro's barn. When John Byro found his horse, he was delighted to see it was stronger and better tempered than before.

Important Characters

Character	Description
Aram	The narrator, a 9-year-old boy who is honest and simple-hearted
Mourad	Aram's 13-year-old cousin, adventurous, daring, and has a way with animals
John Byro	The horse's owner, an Assyrian farmer who trusts the Garoghlanian family
Uncle Khosrove	A crazy, short-tempered man known for shouting "It is no harm; pay no attention to it"

Themes

- Honesty and Integrity: The Garoghlanian family's reputation for honesty despite poverty
- Adventure and Youth: The boys' desire for excitement and their thrill-seeking nature
- Trust and Reputation: How trust built over generations protects the boys
- Guilt and Redemption: The boys' realization and return of the horse
- Poverty vs. Dignity: Being poor but maintaining self-respect

Important Questions & Answers

Q1. What was the Garoghlanian family famous for?

The Garoghlanian family was famous for their honesty and integrity. Despite being extremely poor, no member of the family would ever steal or break anyone's trust. Their honesty was their most prized possession.

Q2. Why couldn't Aram believe what he saw that morning?

Aram couldn't believe his eyes because he saw his cousin Mourad riding a beautiful white horse. He knew Mourad was as poor as him and couldn't afford to buy such a magnificent horse. Since their family was known for honesty, he couldn't imagine Mourad stealing it either.

Q3. What do you understand about Mourad's "way with animals"?

Mourad had a special understanding and connection with animals. He could handle wild horses, calm aggressive dogs, and even heal injured birds. He demonstrated this when he tamed John Byro's wild horse and nursed an injured robin back to health.

Q4. Why did the boys return the horse?

The boys returned the horse after meeting John Byro, who recognized his horse but didn't suspect them because of their family's reputation for honesty. His words made them feel guilty. They realized they had betrayed the trust their family had built over generations.

Q5. Compare and contrast the characters of Aram and Mourad.

Both Aram and Mourad were cousins from the honest Garoghlanian tribe and shared a love for horses and adventure. However, Mourad (13) was more daring, confident, and adventurous than Aram (9). Mourad stole the horse while Aram was more cautious and honest. Mourad had exceptional skills with animals, which Aram lacked.

CHAPTER 2

The Address

By Marga Minco

Summary

Chapter Overview

This story depicts the painful aftermath of war through the narrator's search for her mother's belongings. During World War II, a woman named Mrs. Dorling had taken the narrator's mother's valuable possessions for safekeeping. After the war, when the narrator visits Mrs. Dorling's address, she discovers that things have changed forever.

The narrator returns to Mrs. Dorling's house at 46, Marconi Street after the war. During the war, when the Jews were being persecuted by the Germans, Mrs. Dorling had renewed her acquaintance with the narrator's mother and offered to keep their valuable possessions safe.

The narrator's first visit to Mrs. Dorling's house is unpleasant. Mrs. Dorling refuses to recognize her and rudely says that people who had left never returned. She doesn't allow the narrator inside and closes the door.

On her second visit, the narrator is greeted by Mrs. Dorling's daughter, who shows her around the house. The narrator sees all her mother's belongings being used as ordinary items. The daughter doesn't know the true value of these things.

The narrator realizes that these objects no longer hold any meaning for her. They remind her of her lost mother and the life that was destroyed by the war. She decides to leave everything behind and never return to that address.

Important Characters

Character	Description
The Narrator	A young Jewish woman who lost her family in the war
Mrs. S (Narrator's Mother)	A trusting woman who gave her valuables to Mrs. Dorling
Mrs. Dorling	An opportunistic woman who took advantage of the situation
Mrs. Dorling's Daughter	A young girl unaware of the history behind the objects

Themes

- Loss and Memory: The pain of losing loved ones and cherished possessions
- Human Predicament in War: How war destroys lives and relationships
- Trust and Betrayal: Mrs. Dorling's exploitation of trust during difficult times
- Material vs. Emotional Value: Objects lose meaning when separated from their context

Important Questions & Answers

Q1. Who was Mrs. Dorling and why did she visit Mrs. S's house frequently?

Mrs. Dorling was an old acquaintance of Mrs. S who renewed her contact during World War II when the Jews were being persecuted. She visited frequently to take away the narrator's mother's valuable possessions - silver cutlery, antique plates, vases, and other items - claiming she would keep them safe until the family returned.

Q2. Why did the narrator decide not to claim her mother's belongings?

The narrator decided not to claim her mother's belongings because seeing them in Mrs. Dorling's house, being used as ordinary items without any sentimental value, made her realize that these objects had lost their meaning. They reminded her painfully of her mother who didn't survive the war.

Q3. What is the significance of the title "The Address"?

The title "The Address" is significant because the entire story revolves around 46, Marconi Street - Mrs. Dorling's address. It represents the narrator's hope of reconnecting with her past and retrieving her mother's belongings. However, the address ultimately becomes a symbol of lost connections and the impossibility of returning to what once was.

CHAPTER 3

Ranga's Marriage

By Masti Venkatesha Iyengar

Summary

Chapter Overview

This humorous story is about Ranga, a young man who returns to his village after studying in Bangalore. The narrator, Shyama, decides that Ranga should marry Ratna, a young orphan girl. Through clever manipulation and the help of the astrologer Shastri, the narrator successfully arranges the marriage.

The story is set in Hosahalli, a village in Mysore. Ranga, the son of the village accountant, returns home after studying in Bangalore. Everyone in the village is curious to see how education has changed him.

The narrator, Shyama, takes a liking to Ranga and decides he should get married. He thinks of Ratna, an eleven-year-old orphan girl who lives with her uncle and is known for her sweet voice and musical talent.

When Ratna arrives, the narrator asks her to sing. Ranga, who happens to be visiting, is mesmerized by her voice and beauty. However, being educated and progressive, he believes in marrying a mature woman, not a child.

The narrator then conspires with the village astrologer, Shastri. He takes Ranga to Shastri, who pretends to read Ranga's horoscope and declares that Ranga is in love with a girl whose name is related to something found in the ocean - "Ratna" means jewel, which is found in the sea.

Ranga is convinced and agrees to marry Ratna. The marriage takes place and is a happy one.

Important Questions & Answers

Q1. Why was there a crowd at Ranga's house when he returned from Bangalore?

There was a crowd at Ranga's house because everyone in the village was curious to see how education in Bangalore had changed Ranga. They wanted to see if he had become proud or different from the village boys.

Q2. What were Ranga's views on marriage?

Ranga, being educated and progressive, believed that one should marry a mature and understanding woman, not a young girl. He believed that a husband and wife should genuinely like and understand each other for a successful marriage.

Q3. How did the narrator manipulate Ranga into agreeing to marry Ratna?

The narrator first arranged for Ratna to come to his house and sing, knowing Ranga would be captivated by her voice. Then he took Ranga to the astrologer Shastri, who had been briefed beforehand. Shastri pretended to read Ranga's horoscope and claimed he was in love with a girl whose name was related to the ocean. This convinced Ranga that it was destined.

CHAPTER 4

Albert Einstein at School

By Patrick Pringle

Summary

Chapter Overview

This chapter describes Albert Einstein's school days in Munich, Germany. It shows how he was different from other students, his conflicts with teachers, and his eventual decision to leave school. The story highlights his independent thinking and early signs of genius.

Albert Einstein studied at a school in Munich, Germany, where his father had a business. Unlike other boys who enjoyed the strict discipline and rote learning, Albert hated the school. He found the teaching methods oppressive and the subjects uninteresting.

Albert's history teacher, Mr. Braun, was particularly strict and believed in memorization. When Albert couldn't answer questions about dates and facts, Mr. Braun punished him and told him that education was about learning facts. Albert argued that ideas were more important than facts.

Albert's only friend was Yuri, who understood his struggles. Albert told Yuri that he wanted to leave school and study in Italy where his father had moved. Yuri suggested getting a medical certificate stating that Albert had a nervous breakdown.

Albert met Dr. Weil, a kind doctor who agreed to help him. The doctor gave him a certificate recommending that Albert leave school for six months due to nervous exhaustion.

Important Questions & Answers

Q1. Why did Albert Einstein hate his school in Munich?

Albert hated his school because of its strict discipline and emphasis on rote learning. The teachers believed in memorizing facts rather than understanding ideas. Albert found the teaching methods oppressive and the subjects uninteresting. He felt stifled in an environment that didn't encourage creative thinking.

Q2. What was Albert's argument with his history teacher about?

Albert argued with his history teacher, Mr. Braun, about the purpose of education. When Albert couldn't answer questions about dates, Mr. Braun said education was about learning facts. Albert disagreed, saying that ideas were more important than facts. He believed that one could always look up facts in books, but ideas required thinking.

CHAPTER 5

Mother's Day

By J.B. Priestley

Summary

Chapter Overview

This humorous play portrays the plight of mothers who work tirelessly for their families but receive little appreciation. Mrs. Pearson, a devoted mother, is transformed by her neighbour Mrs. Fitzgerald using magic, and teaches her family a valuable lesson about respecting and appreciating mothers.

Mrs. Annie Pearson is a devoted wife and mother who spends all her time serving her family - her husband George, son Cyril, and daughter Doris. However, her family takes her for granted and doesn't appreciate her efforts.

Mrs. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Pearson's neighbour and friend, is a strong, no-nonsense woman who practices magic. Seeing Mrs. Pearson's miserable condition, she decides to help her. Using her magic, she exchanges personalities with Mrs. Pearson.

Now in Mrs. Pearson's body, Mrs. Fitzgerald behaves completely differently. When Doris complains about her yellow dress, the new Mrs. Pearson tells her to do her own work. When Cyril asks for tea, she refuses. When George asks where his tea is, she tells him to get it himself.

The family is shocked by this sudden change. Gradually, the family realizes how much they depend on their mother and how little they appreciate her. They begin to feel guilty and promise to change their behavior.

Important Questions & Answers

Q1. How was Mrs. Pearson treated by her family?

Mrs. Pearson was taken for granted by her family. Her husband George expected her to serve him tea and wait on him. Her daughter Doris wanted her to iron her dress and do her work. Her son Cyril demanded tea and snacks. None of them appreciated her efforts or showed her any respect.

Q2. What was Mrs. Fitzgerald's plan to help Mrs. Pearson?

Mrs. Fitzgerald used her magic to exchange personalities with Mrs. Pearson. She took over Mrs. Pearson's body and behaved in a completely different way - assertive, demanding, and refusing to do all the household chores. This was meant to shock the family into realizing how much they depended on their mother.

Q3. What message does the play convey?

The play conveys that mothers often sacrifice their own happiness for their families but receive little appreciation in return. It highlights the need for family members to recognize and value the work mothers do. The play also emphasizes the importance of self-respect and standing up for oneself, even within the family.

CHAPTER 6

The Ghat of the Only World

By Amitav Ghosh

Summary

Chapter Overview

This touching memoir is a tribute to the poet Aga Shahid Ali, a close friend of the author. Written after Shahid's death from cancer, the piece describes their friendship, Shahid's last days, his love for Kashmir, and his final wish to be remembered through a poem.

Amitav Ghosh recounts his friendship with the Kashmiri-American poet Aga Shahid Ali. They first met in New York and bonded over their shared love for literature, food, and music. Shahid was known for his warmth, hospitality, and his famous phrase "Oh dear, never mind."

Shahid was diagnosed with a brain tumor and knew he didn't have much time left. Despite his illness, he remained cheerful and continued to host dinner parties for his friends. He was deeply connected to his Kashmiri heritage and often spoke about the beauty of Kashmir.

Shahid's last wish was that Amitav Ghosh write something about him after his death. He specifically wanted to be remembered through a poem or piece of writing. This memoir is Ghosh's fulfillment of that promise.

Important Questions & Answers

Q1. Who was Aga Shahid Ali and what was he known for?

Aga Shahid Ali was a renowned Kashmiri-American poet known for his warmth, hospitality, and literary talent. He was famous for his phrase "Oh dear, never mind" and his love for good food, music, and company. He was deeply connected to his Kashmiri heritage and often wrote about Kashmir in his poetry.

Q2. What was Shahid's last wish?

Shahid's last wish was that Amitav Ghosh write something about him after his death. He wanted to be remembered through a poem or piece of writing. This memoir is Ghosh's fulfillment of that promise to his dear friend.

Q3. What does the title "The Ghat of the Only World" signify?

The title refers to the "ghat" (riverbank) where last rites are performed in Hindu tradition. "The Only World" reflects Shahid's belief that this world is all we have, and we must make the most of it. The title beautifully captures the themes of death, memory, and the transience of life.

CHAPTER 7

Birth

By A.J. Cronin

Summary

Chapter Overview

This inspiring story is about a young doctor, Andrew Manson, who performs a miracle by saving both a mother and her newborn baby during a difficult childbirth. The story highlights the dedication, skill, and perseverance required in the medical profession.

Dr. Andrew Manson is a young physician who is called to attend to a difficult childbirth case. The patient is Susan Morgan, who has been married for nearly twenty years and is expecting her first child.

When Andrew arrives, he finds that Susan is in labor but the delivery is complicated. After a long and difficult struggle, the baby is born - but it is lifeless, limp, and boneless. The midwife had already given up on the baby.

Andrew first attends to the mother, who is in a critical condition. He gives her an injection and ensures she is stable. Then he turns his attention to the seemingly dead baby.

Refusing to give up, Andrew tries an unconventional method. He alternates between dipping the baby in hot and ice-cold water while gently pressing on its chest. He continues this treatment for nearly thirty minutes.

Finally, the miracle happens - the baby gasps, cries, and begins to breathe. Andrew has saved both the mother and the child.

Important Questions & Answers

Q1. Describe the condition of the baby when it was born.

When the baby was born, it was lifeless, limp, and boneless. It showed no signs of breathing or movement. The midwife had given up on the baby, believing it was stillborn. Everyone except Dr. Andrew had lost hope for the child's survival.

Q2. What method did Dr. Andrew use to revive the baby?

Dr. Andrew used an unconventional method to revive the baby. He alternated between dipping the baby in hot and ice-cold water while gently pressing on its chest. He continued this treatment for nearly thirty minutes, refusing to give up even when everyone else had lost hope.

Q3. What does the story tell us about Dr. Andrew's character?

The story reveals Dr. Andrew as a dedicated, skilled, and persevering doctor. He refuses to give up even in the most hopeless situations. He prioritizes his patients' lives above his own comfort, working tirelessly to save both the mother and the baby.

CHAPTER 8

The Tale of Melon City

By Vikram Seth

Summary

Chapter Overview

This humorous poem tells the story of a foolish king who orders the execution of an arch that accidentally hit his crown. The blame game continues until the king himself is sentenced to death. The poem satirizes mindless authority and blind adherence to rules.

There was a king who was known for being "just and placid." He ordered the construction of an arch above a public road for the "mental and moral improvement" of his subjects. However, the arch was built too low.

One day, as the king rode under the arch, it hit his crown and knocked it off. Enraged, the king ordered that the guilty party be found and hanged. The chief of builders was brought forward, but he blamed the workers. The workers blamed the brick makers, who blamed the masons. The masons blamed the architect.

The architect, in turn, blamed the king himself for making changes to the plans. Cornered, the king sought the advice of the wisest man in the state. The old man advised that the arch itself be hanged.

When the arch was about to be hanged, a counselor pointed out that the arch had touched the king's head. The crowd demanded that someone be hanged. The king, bound by his own decree, found himself sentenced to death.

After his execution, the ministers followed an old custom: the next person to pass through the city gates would choose the new ruler. An idiot happened to pass by and replied "A melon." The ministers crowned a melon as king.

Important Questions & Answers

Q1. Why did the king want to hang someone?

The king wanted to hang someone because an arch that he had ordered to be built accidentally hit his crown and knocked it off as he rode under it. Enraged by this insult, he demanded that the guilty party be found and executed.

Q2. How did the blame game unfold in the poem?

The chief of builders blamed the workers, who blamed the brick makers. The brick makers blamed the masons, who blamed the architect. The architect then turned the tables by blaming the king himself for making changes to the original plans. This chain of blame ultimately led back to the king.

Q3. How did the melon become the ruler?

After the king's execution, the ministers followed an old custom where the next person to pass through the city gates would choose the new ruler. An idiot happened to pass by and, when asked what should be the ruler, replied "A melon" (his favorite thing). The ministers blindly followed tradition and crowned a melon.

Q4. What is the satire in the poem?

The poem satirizes mindless authority, blind adherence to traditions, and the absurdity of bureaucratic systems. The king claims to be just but acts foolishly. The ministers follow traditions without question. The people accept a melon as king as long as they are left in peace.

02

GRAMMAR

Complete Grammar Section with Rules, Examples & Practice Questions

GRAMMAR 1

Gap Filling - Tenses & Clauses

Tenses - Quick Revision

Simple Present Tense

Use: For habitual actions, universal truths, and permanent situations.

Structure: Subject + V1 (s/es for third person singular)

Examples: She goes to school every day. The sun rises in the east.

Present Continuous Tense

Use: For actions happening now or around now.

Structure: Subject + am/is/are + V-ing

Examples: They are playing cricket now. I am reading a novel these days.

Simple Past Tense

Use: For completed actions in the past.

Structure: Subject + V2

Examples: She went to Mumbai yesterday. They watched a movie last night.

Past Continuous Tense

Use: For actions in progress at a specific time in the past.

Structure: Subject + was/were + V-ing

Examples: I was studying when he called. They were playing at 5 o'clock yesterday.

Present Perfect Tense

Use: For actions completed recently or with present relevance.

Structure: Subject + has/have + V3

Examples: She has finished her homework. I have lived here for ten years.

Practice Questions - Gap Filling

Fill in the blanks with the correct form of the verb:

1. She _____ (go) to the market every Sunday. Ans: goes

2. They _____ (play) cricket when it started raining. Ans: were playing

3. I _____ (finish) my homework just now. Ans: have finished

4. He _____ (work) in this company since 2010. Ans: has been working

5. By the time we arrived, the movie _____ (already/start). Ans: had already started

GRAMMAR 2

Sentence Re-ordering

Rules for Re-ordering Jumbled Sentences

Key Points to Remember

- Identify the subject first - usually a noun or pronoun
- Look for the verb - the action word
- Find the object - what receives the action
- Place adjectives before the nouns they modify
- Place adverbs near the verbs they modify
- Prepositional phrases usually come after the main clause

Practice Questions - Re-ordering

Rearrange the following words/phrases to form meaningful sentences:

1. in the garden / the children / are playing / happily

Ans: The children are playing happily in the garden.

2. is reading / a book / she / interesting

Ans: She is reading an interesting book.

3. to the market / my mother / went / buy some vegetables / to

Ans: My mother went to the market to buy some vegetables.

4. if / you study hard / will pass / you / the exam

Ans: You will pass the exam if you study hard.

GRAMMAR 3

Sentence Transformation

Types of Sentence Transformation

Active to Passive Voice

Tense	Active	Passive
Simple Present	She writes a letter.	A letter is written by her.
Simple Past	He bought a car.	A car was bought by him.
Present Perfect	They have finished work.	Work has been finished by them.

Direct to Indirect Speech

Rules: Remove quotation marks and use 'that'. Change tense according to reporting verb. Change pronouns (I → he/she, my → his/her). Change time expressions (now → then, today → that day).

Examples: Direct: She said, "I am tired." Indirect: She said that she was tired.

Practice Questions - Transformation

Transform the following sentences as directed:

1. The cat killed the mouse. (Change to Passive) Ans: The mouse was killed by the cat.

2. He said, "I am going to Delhi." (Change to Indirect) Ans: He said that he was going to Delhi.

3. She is too weak to walk. (Remove 'too') Ans: She is so weak that she cannot walk.

4. As soon as he saw the tiger, he ran away. (Use 'No sooner') Ans: No sooner did he see the tiger than he ran away.

5. If you do not study, you will fail. (Begin with 'Unless') Ans: Unless you study, you will fail.

GRAMMAR 4

Integrated Grammar Practice

Editing (Error Correction)

Edit the following passage:

Yesterday I go (went) to the market. I want (wanted) to buy some fruits. The shopkeeper is (was) very polite. He show (showed) me many varieties of apples. I choose (chose) the red ones. They is (were) very fresh. I pay (paid) the money and return (returned) home.

Omission (Fill in the blanks)

Fill in the blanks with one word in each:

Once upon a time, there lived a king. He was very kind and just. All his subjects loved him. One day, an old man came to his court. He had a complaint against a rich merchant.

Sentence Completion

Complete the following sentences:

1. If I were rich, _____ Ans: I would help the poor.

2. Hardly had I reached the station _____ Ans: when the train left.

3. No sooner did the teacher enter _____ Ans: than the students stood up.

4. It is high time _____ Ans: we started working.

5. Had he studied hard, _____ Ans: he would have passed.

GRAMMAR 5

Important Grammar Rules

Subject-Verb Concord

Basic Rules

- Rule 1: A singular subject takes a singular verb; a plural subject takes a plural verb. Example: The boy runs fast. The boys run fast.
- Rule 2: When subjects are joined by 'and', use plural verb. Example: Ram and Shyam are friends.
- Rule 3: When subjects are joined by 'or/nor', the verb agrees with the nearest subject. Example: Neither the teacher nor the students were present.
- Rule 4: Words like 'each', 'every', 'everyone', 'someone' take singular verbs. Example: Each student has a book.

Modals - Usage

Common Modals and Their Uses

Modal	Use	Example
Can	Ability, permission	I can swim. You can go now.
Could	Past ability, polite request	I could run faster when young. Could you help me?
May	Permission, possibility	You may leave. It may rain today.
Might	Remote possibility	It might be true.
Must	Necessity, strong obligation	You must obey the rules.
Should	Advice, obligation	You should study regularly.
Would	Past habit, polite request	He would walk daily. Would you mind?

Reported Speech - Important Rules

Changes in Tense

Direct Speech	Reported Speech
Simple Present →	Simple Past
Present Continuous →	Past Continuous
Present Perfect →	Past Perfect
Simple Past →	Past Perfect
Will →	Would
Can →	Could
May →	Might

03

QUICK REFERENCE

Literary Devices, Authors & Exam Tips

REFERENCE 1

Literary Devices

Important Literary Devices

Literary Device	Definition	Example
Alliteration	Repetition of consonant sounds at the beginning of words	"Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers"
Simile	Comparison using 'like' or 'as'	"As brave as a lion"
Metaphor	Direct comparison without using 'like' or 'as'	"Time is a thief"
Personification	Giving human qualities to non-human things	"The wind whispered through the trees"
Hyperbole	Exaggerated statements	"I've told you a million times"
Oxymoron	Contradictory terms used together	"Deafening silence", "Bittersweet"
Irony	Contrast between expectation and reality	A fire station burning down
Imagery	Creating mental pictures through words	"The golden sun set behind the mountains"
Symbolism	Using objects to represent deeper meanings	Dove symbolizing peace
Onomatopoeia	Words that imitate sounds	Buzz, hiss, crash, bang

REFERENCE 2

Authors and Their Works

SnapShot - Complete List

Author	Work	Genre
William Saroyan	The Summer of the Beautiful White Horse	Short Story
Marga Minco	The Address	Short Story
Masti Venkatesha Iyengar	Ranga's Marriage	Short Story
Patrick Pringle	Albert Einstein at School	Biographical Sketch
J.B. Priestley	Mother's Day	Play
Amitav Ghosh	The Ghat of the Only World	Memoir
A.J. Cronin	Birth	Short Story
Vikram Seth	The Tale of Melon City	Poem

REFERENCE 3

Exam Preparation Tips

How to Score Well in English

Reading Section Tips

- Read the passage carefully before attempting questions
- Look for keywords in the questions and find them in the passage
- For note-making, identify main points and sub-points clearly
- Follow the proper format for note-making with abbreviations
- Practice summarization by identifying the central idea

Writing Section Tips

- Follow the word limit strictly
- Use proper format for each type of writing task
- For advertisements, include all essential details
- For speeches and debates, use persuasive language
- Divide your writing into clear paragraphs

Literature Section Tips

- Read all chapters thoroughly
- Remember character names and their traits

- Learn important quotes from each chapter
- Practice writing answers within word limits
- For long answers, include introduction, main points, and conclusion

Grammar Section Tips

- Revise all tenses and their uses
- Practice gap filling exercises regularly
- Learn the rules for transformation of sentences
- Understand the rules for reported speech
- Practice editing and omission exercises

Marking Scheme (As per CBSE)

Section	Content	Marks
Section A	Reading Skills (Unseen Passages + Note Making)	26
Section B	Grammar + Creative Writing Skills	23
Section C	Literature Textbooks	31
Total		80

Best Wishes for Your Exams!

Remember: Regular practice and revision are the keys to success.
Read carefully, write neatly, and manage your time well.

"Success is the sum of small efforts, repeated day in and day out."

About the Author

MOHAMMAD FAIZ

Writer, Compiler & Creator

This comprehensive study guide has been meticulously crafted to help Class 11 students excel in their English examinations.

© 2026 Mohammad Faiz. All Rights Reserved.